

CHASTAIN CHATTER

Number 051

September 16, 2017

MENU

1. Dear Chastain Cousins
2. Announcements
 - a) Enhanced Version of Chastain Chatter #51
 - b) Breaking News: Emory Alzheimers Presentation
3. Question
4. Genealogical Tip: The Relevance of Surnames
5. Trivia: Chastain Personalities
6. A family with an astonishing rate of Alzheimer's disease may harbor a powerful new gene
7. Forgotten Hero: William Frank Chasteen
8. Prayer List
9. Obituaries
 - a) Danny Ray Chastain
 - b) Jay Kevin Shasteen
 - c) Harland E. Schasteen
10. Reunion Reminders
11. Next issue of Chastain Chatter
12. Trivia Answer Key
13. Appendix: PCFA 2017 Reunion Registration Form
 - a) PCFA 2017 Reunion Registration Form
 - b) Hampton Inn Hotel Reservation Info
 - c) Reunion Coordinator: Sandy
14. Chastain Chatter Publishing Information

News Flash

There is still time to register to attend the Chastain family reunion in Louisville, Kentucky. It's the week-end of October 6th and 7th. Check the Appendix at the end for registration details.

1. Dear Chastain Cousins

MENU

We especially have good news to report about the presentation that will be made by Emory Alzheimers Research Center. Check Section 2 to read the details.

In Section 4, you'll find the genealogical tip about surnames, which I find a bit fascinating. Surnames simply evolved as pronunciations and spellings changed from one generation to the next. Some Chastain descendants do not carry the Chastain surname spelled as C H A S T A I N, but they are still part of our Chastain family.

(I plan to include more information about surnames in future issues of Chastain Chatter.)

For those of you who enjoy the challenge of answering trivia questions, you'll find a few questions in Section 5. (Just remember, trivia means useless information.)

Section 6 is an outstanding article about Chastains and Alzheimers disease written by Michele Cohen Malmin and just published on September 11, 2017. She interviewed several Chastains who have been part of the study conducted by Emory, mostly those who live in the area of Ellijay, Georgia.

Michele also interviewed Dr. Allan Levey and Dr. Thomas Wingo, both of whom will be presenting at our reunion this year.

I've included a copy of the complete article Michele wrote, however, if you click the link under it, you'll be able to see the photos that are included with the article. They really bring it to life.

(And if you are attending the Chastain reunion this year, you will actually get to meet Michele, because she has registered to attend.)

Section 7 is a story I stumbled upon about a forgotten Chasteen hero. It was fairly long, and it was in a format that I could not easily adapt to this e-mail, but Pattie Duggan kindly offered to type the whole article. Thank you to Pattie.

And at the end of the issue, you'll find reunion reminders (Section 10) with information, and the Appendix (Section 12) for information on how to register and how to contact the Hampton Inn to make room reservations.

The Chastain Chatter needs your help. I want to include a variety of Chastain related reports or stories in each issue. If you send in some of your family stories, questions, comments, suggestions, history, announcements, milestone news, anecdotes, suggestions, etc., I'd love to share them.

To contact me, send e-mails to karylcb@cs.com and karylcb@gmail.com .

Love and peace,
Karyl
(Karyl Chastain Beal, Columbia, Tennessee.)

2. Announcements

a) Enhanced Version of Chastain Chatter Issue # 051

MENU

First timers: Congratulations, you did it!

Experienced Downloaders: Another quotidian task by now. :)

Navigation Tips:

Links in this color go to places in this document.

This color link goes to your web browser or email program.

b) Breaking News: Emory Alzheimers Presentation

MENU

All three of the top researchers from Emory Alzheimers Research Center plan to attend our reunion in Louisville, Kentucky this year: Dr. Allan Levey, Dr. Thomas Wingo, and Melissa Armendariz, clinical research coordinator. They will do a two hour presentation on Saturday to explain and update the work they have done (and will be doing) on Alzheimers and the Chastain connection.

3. ¿Question?

MENU

Hello, my name is Johan Chastain. I live in Gatesville, Texas.

I have a relative I'm wanting information on. Her name was Sarah Margaret Downing. Her birth date was 1835 died 30 May 1931. In Greene, Missouri. She was married to Frances Marion Chastain. These two people were my great great grandparents.

See, my great great grandmother was 100 percent Osage Indian. And she was adopted. So this name I have of her is her adopted name. My interest is in finding out her real name before adoption. And who was the man who adopted her. She lived a very long life I have a photo of her with 5 generations of women Chastains.

— Johan Chastain – e-mail johanchastain0@gmail.com

The Relevance of Surnames

From SOG.org.uk

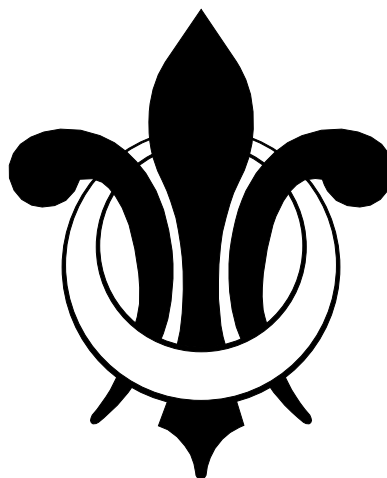

Unfortunately only a very small number of pedigrees of British families can be traced to the person who first used the surnames they now bear. Many surnames have been corrupted to such an extent that their original forms may only be discovered after quite considerable research.

This may involve tracing the pedigree step by step from the present backwards in time, not only to detect the changes but also to discover the area of the country from which the family came.

Present day forms of a large number of surnames are due to the spelling of 16th or 17th century parsons, or even to the registrars of births in the 19th century. They had no guide to the spellings of names and attempted to reproduce phonetically the sounds they heard, as the great majority of the population were illiterate and had no notion that any one spelling of their name was more 'correct' than any other.

All our original ancestors used a one-part name, whether they were Celts, Anglo-Saxons, Scandinavians or Normans. Certain people before the Norman Conquest, and in growing numbers afterwards, had an additional 'byname', but these were not hereditary surnames in the modern sense as they did not pass from father to son. Such names may appear in the Domesday Book, but they have no relevance here.

It was not until the early 12th century that surnames became hereditary among the nobility. They spread gradually amongst the ordinary people in the next century, from the town to the country and from the south of England to the north. Most people in England did not, however, have anything approaching a hereditary surname until the end of the 14th century.

5. Trivia:

MENU

Chastain Personalities

- 1) Who was a missionary to Mexico, a pioneering genealogist, and lived a hundred years
 - a) Dixie Herlong Chastain
 - b) James Garvin Chastain
 - c) Moses Chastain
 - d) Methuselah Chastain
 - e) Penelope Chasteen

- 2) Who was a Trivial Pursuit champion, a pioneering judge, and lived a hundred years
 - a) Dixie Herlong Chastain
 - b) Karyl Chastain Beal
 - c) Santa Claus Chastain
 - d) Methuselah Chastain
 - e) Rip Van W. Chasteen

- 3) Who is the title character in a Stephen King novel
 - a) Judith Chastain
 - b) Madye Lee Chestine
 - c) Misery Chastain
 - d) Rainy Shastain
 - e) Anne Soblet

- 4) What Kansas City area hero founded Hate Busters and campaigns against hate groups
 - a) Adolph H. Chastain
 - b) Bill Murray
 - c) Clay Chastain
 - d) Dan Aykroyd
 - e) Ed Chasteen

- 5) How many known grandchildren did Rev. John Chastain have
 - a) 21
 - b) 57
 - c) 80
 - d) 96
 - e) 113

(Source: Chastain Central)

6. A Family With an Astonishing Rate of Alzheimer's Disease May Harbor a Powerful New Gene

MENU

By

Michele Cohen Marill

September 11, 2017

ELLIJAY, Ga. — Louise Lowman Lee remembers stories about her great-grandmother being put in a fenced area in the backyard, so she could wander safely. She watched her mother patiently care for her grandmother, who lost her reason, inhibitions, and ability to care for herself. Then Alzheimer's disease gradually eroded the brain of her devoted mother, too.

But when Lee and two of her sisters brought their mother, Mildred Chastain Lowman, to Emory University in Atlanta in 2006, they weren't thinking about the family tree. They were just looking for the best possible treatment.

Dr. Allan Levey asked them to come into a conference room with a genetic counselor and other members of his team. "We've been waiting for you," he said.

"We were sort of stunned," recalled Sherry Dunn, another sister. "We were looking at each other like, 'What are they talking about?'"

Levey explained that he had seen other Chastains in his clinic over the years and had begun studying their pattern of Alzheimer's inheritance. Genetic studies are stronger if they include multiple branches of a family tree, and here was Lowman, a distant cousin. She even looked uncannily like another Chastain patient Levey had treated.

The Lowman sisters immediately agreed to give blood samples and take baseline cognitive tests. Their personal struggle took on a greater purpose. Emory researchers "needed us just as much as we needed them," said the youngest sister, Holly Phillips.

Researchers have since determined that there exists in the extended Chastain family an astonishing rate of Alzheimer's: The disease strikes 44 percent of family members with an affected parent. No other large family has been found with such a high likelihood of inheriting the typical, late-onset type of Alzheimer's. The rate suggests some family members carry a previously unknown gene so powerful that it can cause disease in someone who receives a copy from just one parent.

Despite sparse funding for their work, Emory scientists say they have made progress in their quest to identify this new Alzheimer's gene, which could provide clues about the disease's causes, and possible treatments.

About the author: Michele Cohen Marill, has an extensive resume. She has a degree in journalism from Northwestern University.

On her website, she wrote: Freelance Writer - I am an award-winning journalist with experience in magazine writing, news reporting, online media and writing custom book manuscripts. I have a specialty in health and medical writing, which includes work for both consumer and professional publications.

To read the complete article, go to the link:

<https://www.statnews.com/2017/09/11/alzheimers-disease-gene-family/>

7. Forgotten Hero:

MENU

William Frank Chasteen

Source; bookos.google.com

Typed by Patricia Duggan

THE EVENT

Greenville Officer William Frank Chasteen, 47, a 17-year veteran, was shot and killed on Feb. 21, 1971, as he questioned a suspect in an alleged earlier shooting. The killer was wounded by Chasteen and his partner and committed suicide when "cornered" by police. Chasteen was the first City of Greenville officer killed in 39 years (since Officer A.B. Hunt was killed in 1932).

Officer Chasteen and his close friend and partner of 12 years, Officer David A. Woodall, 39, had just begun their tour of duty on the midnight shift on Sunday, Feb. 21, 1971, when they received a call from the dispatcher at 12:22 AM that there was a disturbance in "Booker's Alley" in the "Greenline area" (a black ghetto in the northeast section of the city).

Upon arrival Chasteen and Woodall were told by a black woman that Richard Brooks had shot her in the neck and run out of the house. The officers knew Brooks, a 26-year-old, 300 lb., black man, from their many years patrolling the city.

The officers went to Brooks' nearby home but were unable to find him. They then drove back to the home of the woman who had reported the shooting incident and were told that Brooks had been back and had shot her 16-year-old daughter in the arm as she sat outside the house with a 16-year-old boy.

The Greenville News later reported that the two wounded women were Mary Jane Bowens, 41, who was shot in the head, and her daughter, Linda Bowens, 16, who was shot in the right arm. Brooks and the older woman had apparently been involved in a violent argument over Brooks dating her 16-year-old daughter.

According to a later police investigation, Brooks was "fond of" the 16-year-old Linda Bowens and became enraged when he discovered that she had a date with a 16-year-old boy. When the young couple drove up to Linda's house just before midnight, Brooks fired three shots into the youths' car. Linda ran inside her home and Brooks tried to kick in the door and "began firing shots all over the house." The grandmother hit Brooks twice in the head with a hammer before he left.

As the officers were talking with the woman complainant, a man walked up to the officers and said, "Brooks is standing up yonder on the corner under the street light." The two officers drove their patrol car to the corner and both got out, drew their service revolvers, and approached Brooks who was standing under the street light with a pistol in his right hand. The officers knew that Brooks had often been in court on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct and drunken driving but he had never been violent before.

Chasteen, who was nearest Brooks, said "Give me the gun, big guy." Brooks raised his left hand and wiped the sweat from his face, and at the same time he raised the pistol in his right hand and started shooting Chasteen in the chest.

Things happened so swiftly then that everything seemed like a blur of frenzied movement. Chasteen was smashed to the ground by the impact of bullets striking him in the chest. The dying Chasteen, on the ground, emptied his revolver with his last strength but the bullets went into the ground.

As Chasteen fell, Woodall began firing at Brooks who started running from the scene. The officer's first shot "knocked down" Brooks but he got up and began running again only to be felled by a second shot. Brooks did not get up after the second "knock down" and thus Woodall, thinking that Brooks was immobilized or dead, ran back to help his fallen partner. He determined that Chasteen was badly wounded and ran back to the patrol car (about 100 yards away) to call for an ambulance.

As he was calling for help on the police radio a witness to the shooting yelled to Woodall "that the man was coming again." Brooks fired at Woodall (hitting the windshield of the patrol car) who could not return fire immediately as he had emptied his gun earlier firing at the fleeing Brooks. Woodall ran around his car to re-load and emerged only to find that the shooter had disappeared.

Officer Woodall returned to his fallen partner and examined him more closely as he awaited the ambulance. He saw that Chasteen had been shot twice in the upper left chest and was probably dead. Other officers arrived about the same time as the ambulance. Chasteen was rushed to the hospital but was dead on arrival.

THE PERPETRATOR

A police search team was organized to locate the gunman. SLED agents brought bloodhounds to the shooting scene and they "sniffed a bloodstained trail" that led (at 3:20 AM) to an old grocery store building on Stone Avenue, two blocks from the shooting.

Officers converged on the building and one of them detected movement under the floor. He started to call out, and a single pistol shot sounded underneath the floor. Then silence.

The hunters crawled in and discovered the dead killer. He had fired a single shot into his brain.

Brooks had entered the building by crawling through an open basement window. Realizing that he was "cornered," the killer shot himself in the head. He was found unconscious with his pistol near him. He had been shot four times and died five hours later. The killer was identified as Richard Dean Brooks, 26. The autopsy revealed that he had been "shot three times in his right arm and once in the back before firing the fatal shot into his head."

THE OFFICER

William Franklin "Frank" Chasteen, 47, was born in Piedmont, S.C., on Sept. 23, 1924, the only child of William Henry Chasteen and Willie Lou Odom Chasteen. Frank was raised in Piedmont and attended the public schools there. He left high school short of graduation to join the U.S. Navy in 1942 at the age of 17 and served throughout World War II. Most of his six-year Navy career was spent on a refueling ship in the Atlantic but he also served for a time as a military policeman.

Chasteen returned to Greenville County in 1948 after discharge from the Navy and completed his G.E.D. at the Veteran's School in Greenville. He worked at the Franklin Mill in Greer for several years before joining the Greenville Police Department in June of 1954. He was a patrol officer for all of his 17-year career and was a partner to Officer Woodall for 12 years. He also worked off-duty jobs for several years to supplement his meager police salary ($7,600 in 1971).

Officer Chasteen was well-known and well-liked in both the white and black communities. He was known to collect food and clothing from citizens and merchants for delivery to needy persons in the community. In fact, he had even given shoes on one occasion to his killer, Richard Brooks. "Some of the most beautiful flowers at his funeral were sent by black friends."

An editorial in the Greenville News noted that Chasteen was an officer well known by the editors and staff members of the newspaper and lamented the lack of respect often given to police officers.

How ironic that today Frank Chasteen is a fallen hero eulogized by the leaders of the community. On Saturday, he was just another policeman whose family sometimes suffered slights simply because he was a cop.

Frank Chasteen married Nadeene Smith on May 23, 1947 (before his discharge from the Navy). Their son, Steve, was born in 1949. Frank and his family lived at 118 Windemere Dr. in Greenville and were members of the East North St. Baptist Church. Frank was a 32nd degree Mason and a member of Recovery Lodge 31, AFM.

The funeral for Officer Chasteen was held at the Thomas McAfee Funeral Home in Greenville on Tuesday, Feb. 23, and was conducted by Rev. Billy Huff, pastor of East North St. Baptist Church. The service was conducted with full police honors. Including a police honor guard. The service was attended by hundreds of uniformed police officers from Greenville and surrounding cities.

The funeral procession from the church to Woodlawn Memorial Park in Greenville stretched for five miles as the police motorcycles leading the procession reached the cemetery before some cars left the church. A brief service was held at graveside and the folded American flag from the casket was given to the slain officer's widow.

In 1996 the grave of Officer Chasteen is easily found in the northeast corner of Woodlawn Memorial Park. The grave marker reads:

WILLIAM FRANK CHASTEEN

September 23, 1924

February 21, 1971

The grave marker also includes an emblem signifying that Chasteen was a 32nd degree Mason and a police shield with badge #141. The marker includes the name of his widow, who will be buried beside her husband, and the words, "Together Forever."

Frank Chasteen was survived by his wife of 23 years, Nadeene Smith Chasteen, 44, and his son, Steve Franklin Chastain, 21, both of Greenville, and his mother, Willie Lou Chasteen (his father died in 1964). Steve Chasteen had just returned from a tour of duty in Vietnam where he had continued the family tradition of service in the U.S. Navy begun by his grandfather and father. Steve had only recently married and was attending North Greenville Jr. College.

In 1996 Nadeene Chasteen, 65, still lived in the family home at 118 Windemere Dr. in Greenville and her son, Steve Chasteen, 47, lived in nearby Taylors and worked at Wal-Mart. Nadeene Chasteen worked as a bookkeeper at Taylors Lumber Company until her retirement in 1994.

The family did not receive an anticipated $50,000 federal death benefit from a recently enacted Omnibus Crime Control bill but did receive a total of $7,500 (one year's salary), $1,000 from the Patrolman's Volunteer Pledge Fund, some insurance money and a substantial sum of money collected from local citizens. The officer's widow was overwhelmed by the "outpouring of sympathy" from the people of Greenville in the form of flowers and cards at the funeral and the money collected.

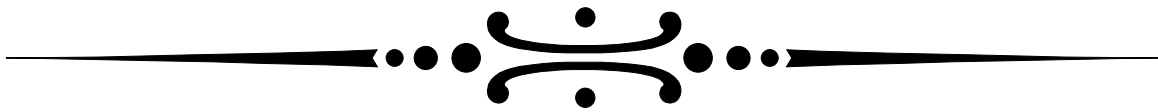

The money enabled the family to pay off its debts and Steve to finish his education.

Also in 1996, Officer Frank Chasteen was survived by two grandchildren, Stephen Paul Chasteen, 23, of Taylors and Stephanie Ann Chasteen, 19, a student at Limestone College of Gafney. Frank's mother, Willie Lou, died in 1991 and was buried in Piedmont beside her husband. Officer David A. Woodall retired from the Greenville Police Dept. in 1990 after 35 years of service and remained in Greenville in 1996.

The name of William Frank Chasteen is inscribed (East Wall, Panel 30, Line 9) on the National Law Enforcement Memorial in Washington, D.C., and a plaque bearing his name is displayed at the S.C. Criminal Justice Hall of Fame in Columbia.

SOURCES: Greenville News, Feb. 22, 23, 1971; Insight, the Magazine of Greenville County, Nov., 1972; and interviews with Steve Chasteen, David A. Woodall, and Mark Batson.

8. Prayer List

MENU

Please hold the following Chastain family members in your hearts and prayers.

- ▶ All whose lives were affected by Hurricanes Harvey and Irma
- ▶ Mike Freels from Arkansas. (Health and other issues)
- ▶ Roy Chastain from Alabama. (Health issues)
- ▶ Carol Chastain from Alabama, Roy's wife (Health issues)

Danny Ray Chastain

From The Chattanooga, September 1, 2017

Danny Ray Chastain, 63, passed away on Thursday, August 31, 2017.

Danny was born in Fort Oglethorpe, on Jan. 22, 1954. He was a resident at Lecroix House, Michael Dunn Center in Rockwood, Tn.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Kimsey Paul Chastain and Dorothy Thelma (Westmoreland) Chastain, and half brothers, Clyde Harvey, Bill Harvey, and Thomas Chastain.

Survivors include his two sisters, Sandra Lewis and Charlotte Gooden; half sister, Margaret Adams; and several nieces and nephews.

The family will have a private graveside service. For those who wish, the family requests that memorial contributions be made to your favorite charity in Danny's memory.

Arrangements are under the care of the North Chapel of Chattanooga Funeral Home, Crematory and Florist, 5401 Highway 153, Hixson.

Jay Kevin Shasteen

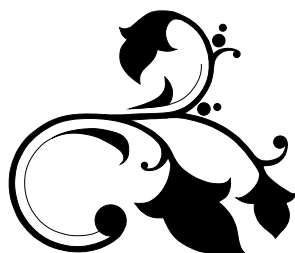

September 3, 2017 from the Salem news, Florida.

COCOA, Fla. — Jay Kevin Shasteen, 63, of Cocoa, Fla., formerly of Salem, died of natural causes on July 30 at his home.

Born July 24, 1954, in Salem, he was the son of the late Jere and Phyllis Shasteen. Mr. Shasteen was a 1972 graduate of Salem High School. He retired in 2014 after 42 years as a draftsman.

He leaves a brother, Tim (Sandy) Shasteen of Salem.

Arrangements were handled by the Ammen Family Cremation and Funeral Care in Rockledge, Fla.

Harland E. Schasteen

December 22, 2015 – Hutchinson News, Arkansas

PRETTY PRAIRIE - Harland E. Schasteen, 79, died Dec. 21, 2015, at the Prairie Sunset Home. He was born Aug. 7, 1936, at Larned, Kan. Raised by his aunt and uncle, Edith and Will Melson, he was a longtime resident of Pretty Prairie, where he worked for the City of Pretty Prairie and townships.

He was a member of the Pretty Prairie United Methodist Church.

On April 1, 1972, he married Francie Rhodes at Pretty Prairie. Other survivors include: son, Charles; daughter, Cindy Snyder; half brother, John Mai; half sisters, Sharon Thomson and Linda Mai-Snead; and six grandchildren. He was preceded in death by daughter, Chris; his mother, Bessie; and aunt and uncle, Edith and Will Melson.

Funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at Pretty Prairie United Methodist Church. The family will receive friends from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at the church. Burial will be in Lone Star Cemetery. Memorials may be made with the church or Prairie Sunset Home, both in care of Livingston Funeral Home, Kingman.

10. Reunion Reminders

MENU

PCFA Reunion Information

Oct 6 – Oct 7, 2017 –
Hampton Inn, Louisville, Kentucky

You can still register to attend. Deadline for reunion registration: September 27, 2017

Silent Auction:
We need your donations!

One way you can help the Pierre Chastain Family Association raise money to help with our mission of preserving our family's history for future generations is to donate items to be auctioned off in the silent auction at the 2017 reunion in Louisville.

Look around your home and find things that are different, hand-made, unique, novelties, or whatever – things you can do without who might bring pleasure to someone else. If you find something to donate, contact Sandy Chastain Brough. If you are attending the reunion, let her know what you have and then bring it with you. If you are not attending, you can mail things in.

Note: Check the Appendix at the end of this issue of Chastain Chatter for the reunion registration information and form and for Sandy's contact information.

11. Next Issue of Chastain Chatter

MENU

I plan to send out the next issue of Chastain Chatter, a week or two after the Chastain family reunion in October.

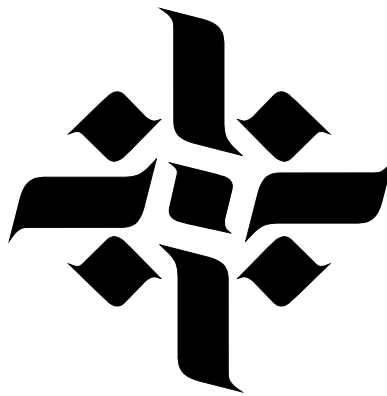

12. Trivia Answer Key

MENU

Chastain Personalities

- 1) Who was a missionary to Mexico, a pioneering genealogist, and lived a hundred years
b) James Garvin Chastain ***
- 2) Who was a Trivial Pursuit champion, a pioneering judge, and lived a hundred years
a) Dixie Herlong Chastain ***
- 3) Who is the title character in a Stephen King novel
c) Misery Chastain ***
- 4) What Kansas City area hero founded Hate Busters and campaigns against hate groups
e) Ed Chasteen ***
- 5) How many known grandchildren did Rev. John Chastain have
e) 113 *

13. Appendix: PCFA 2017 Reunion Registration Form

MENU

Mail the following information and payment to register for the reunion and for the Saturday night banquet to Carol Migdat at the address below. (The last day for registration to be received is Wednesday, September 27, 2017.)

(Checks or money orders should be written to PCFA.)

Your name _____

E-mail _____

Phone _____

Mailing address: _____

How many people are you registering? _____

List names of all people you are registering, including yourself.

(Also write CHILD beside names of any children ages 12 or younger.)

Saturday banquet: $40 per person (or $20 for children ages 12 and under.)

Total amount of payment enclosed: _____

Mail to:

Carol Migdat – PCFA
708 Bodega Bay Dr
Keller TX 76248

HAMPTON INN HOTEL RESERVATION

Call 1-502-585-2200 to reserve a room if you want to stay at the hotel where all reunion activities are. <http://group.hamptoninn.com/PCFA-Annual-Meeting>

REUNION COORDINATOR: Sandy

To donate items for the silent auction, or if you have any concerns or problems making your Hampton Inn hotel reservation, contact the reunion coordinator: Sandy Chastain Brough
E-mail Sandy at sandychastainbrough@yahoo.com or call / text 502-494-1288.

14. Chastain Chatter Publishing Information

MENU

The Chastain Chatter anchor site is www.chastain-chatter.com.

To submit articles, reports, stories, questions, announcements, etc., send a note to Karyl Chastain Beal at karylcb@gmail.com and karylcb@cs.com.

Questions or comments about the .PDF file formatting, problems with links, or eye aches, please contact Ron Roberts at: strebor1995@gmail.com.